Split In Miners' Rank May Avert Coal Strike

Illinois Miner Leader May Start Insurgency Movement at Policy Meeting

A. F. O. L. WILL BACK MINERS

Government Promises to Protect Public Against Violence in Strike

By Fred G. Johnston
By United Press Leased Wire
Indianapolis. — Separate state wage agreements between mine owners and miners may yet avert the nationwide coal strike called for April 1. It was learned Thursday at United Mine Workers headquarters here.

Whether the strike actually materializes depends now upon the power international officers of the union are able to exercise over their subordinates at a meeting of their policy committee in Cleveland Friday.

BREAK THREATENED

Cleveland, O.—A possible serious break in the ranks of the United Mine Workers Thursday threatened to disrupt the organization as the members of the mine policy committee gathered here for opening sessions Friday. The Washington. — The nation has sufficient bituminous coal to last seven or eight weeks in the event of a nationwide coal tieup, a survey of the department of labor revealed Thursday.

The anthracite supply, which was estimated at about eleven million tons would last four weeks.
The bituminous supply, was given as between 65,000,000 and 75,000,000 tons. The "anthracite" supply was estimated as sufficient to keep the trains in operation for 45 days.

committee of 116 members was called to formulate plans for conducting the mine-tieup scheduled to start at midnight March 31.

Possibility of a split was seen by union leaders in the threat of Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois district, that he and his followers would insist upon single state wage negotiations with operators, strongly opposed by international officers of the union.

WILL PROTECT PUBLIC

Washington. The government will protect the public against any violence that might follow a walkout of coal miners April 1, Attorney General Daugherty warned Thursday.

"I am not taking sides in this matter, but I wish to make it clear that the public will be protected," he said.
Daugherty conferred with President Harding and Secretary of Labor Davis, it was learned Thursday. It was understood, was the possibility of a public appeal by the president to the miners and operators to get together in a national conference and discuss their differences before any walkout.
The president is still considering the matter and will make a decision in a short time, it is said.

The government officials maintain the attitude that fuel being indispen-sible to transportation, the people are entitled to protection just as they would be entitled against a railroad tieup.

The element of interstate commerce among public utilities also enters the matter and leads a further proof of the government's right to step in if they believe the coal supply of the country is menaced.

FIGHT TO FINISH

Washington. Labor will drain its treasuries and fight to the bitter end to protect and provide for the six hundred thousand coal miners scheduled to walk out April 1—if that is found necessary—James Lord, head of the American Federation of Labor mining department predicted here Thursday.

Union labor considers the present coal situation one of the most important industrial battles in its history.
Lord, in an exclusive interview with the United Press, charged:
"Wall street is financing the strike and wants it."

The uncompromising attitude of the operators reveals their decision to force a suspension of work.
The whole matter is an operators conspiracy to raise coal prices and hoaxwork the public.

PREVENT WAGE CUTS

"The American Federation of Labor itself is prepared to do its utmost to prevent wage cuts in the mining areas," Lord, a big fighter who was raised in the English coal fields, said. "We will raise funds to our full power, if need be."
"According to present indications, however, the miners are firmly entrenched to fight through a long summer battle if necessary."

"There are many indications that the great financial interests want this tieup and are backing it. They apparently want to break the spirit of

STREET RAILWAYS FACE BANKRUPTCY; JITNEYS BLAMED

High Taxes, Street Improvement Costs and Competition Too Big a Burden

Milwaukee. — Competition with unregulated jitneys and the severe requirements of cities in loading paying costs upon street railways will drive some of those necessary utilities into bankruptcy unless the public is willing to pay increased fares, E. J. Brabant, public utility tax expert of the Wisconsin tax commission said at a joint session of the Wisconsin Gas and Electrical association convention here Thursday.

"There were five street railway companies in Wisconsin in 1921 which reported deficits from operation," he said. "In addition to this there were several others whose earnings were so low as to be insufficient to meet taxes and interest. Then there were others who never have been able to earn a fair return on the money invested."

Touching upon the subject of taxation he said that taxes upon gas, electric and street railway properties have increased fully 450 percent since 1910, whereas the valuation has increased only 200 percent.

Despite these high tax charges which the consumers pay, Brabant argued against the elimination of taxes upon utilities.

SIX STATES FEEL EARTH TREMBLING

St. Louis.—Portions of six states were slightly rocked by earthquake tremors, according to observations made at St. Louis university.

These states felt the shocks, which occurred Wednesday night.
Southern Illinois, southeast Missouri, southern Indiana, western Kentucky, northern Arkansas and northern Tennessee.

The first shock was most severe, according to the seismograph here and occurred at 4:30 p. m. Slight tremors were registered at 4:37, 4:49 and 8:22
p. m.

In southeast Missouri and southern Illinois the shocks were very pronounced, although no property damage was reported. In St. Louis the shocks were very light.

Some of the towns which reported the tremors follow: Paragould, Ark.; Troy, Tenn.; Evansville, Ind.; Hickman, Ky.; Cape Girardeau, Dexter, Popular Bluff and Ilmo, in Missouri and Belleville and Herrin, Illinois.

GRAIN GROWERS WRANGLE
OVER ELECTING DIRECTORS

Chicago. — Administration and anti-administration factions in the United States Grain Growers, Inc., continued to wrangle in convention here Thursday over the election of a board of directors.

A committee of eleven representatives — one from each of the eleven states — was at work on a pooling plan which would meet with the approval of both factions.
The committee probably will bring in its report late Thursday.

AMERICA WILL TAKE BIG PART IN REPARATION

Harding Puts U. S. Representation on Reparations Board
Up to Congress

BIG HELP TO U. S. INDUSTRY

Hughes Advises President that U. S. Representation is Essential

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington. — The United States will take its place at the table of the reparations commission before very long.

This conclusion is inescapable after the developments of the last 24 hours here—the expression from the White house that congress should authorize American membership and the decision to make public the full text of the American note to Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy and Japan asking that the claim for $241,000,000 for payment of the expenses of the American army of occupation on the Rhine be considered by the allied powers who are doling out the German reparations money.

No less person than the president himself has told Congress that the situation over the import of dyes from Germany for the American textile industry is so serious that American participation in the deliberations of the reparations commission absolutely is essential. Mr. Harding now puts the issue squarely up to congress and says the responsibility for the absence of an American member on the reparations commission lies with congress.

This is a new tack for the executive. Heretofore the initiative in international cooperation has been with the president or secretary of state. It is now congress become over all dealings with Europe that Mr. Harding is bent on projecting the question consequently the allied powers are be-negotiated by the arms conference are having such hard sledding.

It is significant that both Senators Lodge and Underwood, leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties respectively in the senate, are crying out against the allied powers of the American claim for $241,000,000 and are insisting on its payment. The executive is not saying that this claim would not now be in question if the United States had been represented on the reparations commission but he has hinted as much and the chances are that he will make the country believe congress rather than the executive is responsible.

Incidentally the pressure for American representation on the reparations commission comes from many different sides. The textile manufacturers who are unable to obtain certain dyes not made in this country are insisting that the American government exercise its rights and get those dyes from Germany through the reparations commission which is in full charge of what is done with Germany's dyes. It would be possible for the allied powers to make the dyes a part of the $241,000,000 owed America. These dyes would then be sold to American firms by the United States government, which would credit the receipts against the original sum

HOUSE TAKES UP DISCUSSION OF BONUS MEASURE

Soldier Bill

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington. — The four billion dollar bonus bill was taken up for discussion by the house Thursday.

The special rule prohibiting its backers to put it through without alteration was called up in the house shortly after it convened at 11 o'clock and the semblance of a fight was started.

The house overwhelmingly adopted the measure permitting the bonus bill to come up immediately under "suspension of the rules."

The roll call vote stood 276 to 126.

HEIR TO ARMOUR MILLIONS IS DEAD

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Gwendolyn Armour, 6-year-old daughter of Philip D. Armour, died early Thursday at the family mansion on Lake Shore drive.

Ten doctors and a corps of nurses fought all night to save the life of the heir to the Armour millions.

All traffic was diverted from in-front of the home and a quiet zone thrown about.

The girl died of peritonitis after an illness of several days.

The father is the grandson of the founder of Armour and company.
The mother of Gwendolyn, who was Miss Gwendolyn Condon, New York was determined that her little girl, although surrounded by a world of wealth, would not become snobbish.

Pick Holes In Story Told By Girl Witness

By United Press Leased Wire

ter of Nellie Gasko, 12, one of the witnesses against George L. Rickard, flight promoter, Defense Counsel Max Steuer, Thursday made her admit being a check forger.

The first apparent attempt of counsel for Rickard to establish an alibi came when the Gasko girl was forced to repeat she had met the promoter on Nov. 12. She said she was certain of the date and that it was a Saturday. She also said she had never been to the Polo grounds and did not know what they were. Rickard is believed to have attended a football game at the Polo grounds November 12.

CHICAGO JURIES PAID TO RELEASE LABOR LEADERS

States Attorney Has Evidence of Wholesale Bribery of Juries

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Robert Crowe, state attorney and other law enforcement agencies moved Thursday to rip the
"for sale" tag from Chicago juries.

Evidence of wholesale purchase of juries which later returned verdicts of "not guilty" or "disregarded," was in the hands of authorities, Crowe announced.

Bought juries which came under the scrutiny of the state's attorney's office were principally those who sat in recent trials of labor leaders, it was said. The probe will involve many other juries, it was believed.

Theodore Lodin, juror in the case of William Quesse, head of the flat ironers' union, was under arrest. The jury trial of Quesse for alleged conspiracy to levy graft on contractors and apartment house owners, disagreed. George Carson, foreman of the same jury, is guarded at his home by police.

Crowe said his disclosures came from an informant who said a $5,000
stush fund was put up to free Quesse.
Of this amount only $1,000 was paid.
The jurors who were doublecrossed, Crowe said, were responsible for the expose.

MORGAN SAYS GOVERNOR CAN GET TAX NEWS

State Attorney Says Law Does Not Withhold Information
From Executive

SHARP BATTLE EXPECTED

Cattin to Introduce Anti-Administration Substitute Measure in Assembly

By Herbert B. Little
By United Press Leased Wire
Madison. — Attorney General William J. Morgan Thursday entered the legislative battle over the secrecy clause of the state income tax when he declared in an opinion to State Senator George Skogmo that the wording of the present statute did not prevent the tax commission from disclosing to the governor any information in its possession respecting violations of the tax laws, or regarding fraudulent income tax returns.

"It is not to be presumed that the governor has any information in his possession respecting violations of the tax laws, or regarding fraudulent income tax returns," Morgan said.

This is in direct controversy of the governor's declaration in his message Wednesday to special session that he was not allowed to obtain information in regard to the infractions of the income law from the commission.

"The idea was that the league should no longer seek political offices for its members, but should endorse candidates of other parties or independent racers for office. Since that time under pressure of opinion he has modified the idea to the extent that he believes the league should not run candidates for important offices such as United States senator, governor and attorney general.

"His idea was called a 'balance of power' plan."

William Lemke is utterly opposed to the league. He was ousted as attorney general in the recall last fall and is now being groomed for the senatorial race by his personal following, it is said.

A. A. Lieberbach, chairman of the North Dakota executive committee of the league, is also opposed to the "balance of power" idea. Most of his following are opposed to it. Townley says his plan has the support of the farmers. The convention will decide whether it is to go through.

RATIFICATION OF FOUR POWER PACT NOW IS ASSURED

Little Probability That Brandegee Reservation Will be Eliminated

Washington.—An eleven hour roll of the senate on the four-power treaty taken Thursday by administration senators, showed it was being passed by the Brandegee reservation attached, by a vote of at least 69 to 27.

The roll also disclosed the fact that the danger of an upset due to the desire of some republican senators to eliminate the Brandegee reservation is past. Fewer than a dozen republicans would vote for a motion to strike out the Brandegee proposal.

The last day of treaty debate was opened Thursday with a speech by Senator Colt, Rhode Island.

Colt said old familiar argument, made against the treaty, that the United States should not entangle itself in foreign quarrels had been answered for all time by the fact that from now on every foreign quarrel touches intimately the interests and well being of the United States.

INCOME TAX FALLS SHORT OF ESTIMATE

By United Press Leased Wire

shortage this year of approximately $200,000,000 because income tax payments of March 15 have fallen considerably below previous estimates, it was stated officially at the departpared to increase the fiscal burden by passing the soldier bonus bill.

restricted zone.

Dodge came here from Kalamazoo,
Mich., where he was acquitted Wednesday on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

He served a five-day sentence in the workhouse here last week after conviction on charges of speeding.
Dodge must return to Kalamazoo next month where he will be tried on the charge of transporting and possessing liquor.

NONPARTY LEAGUE FATE HINGING ON TODAY'S MEETING

Townley's Pet Scheme is Opposed by Other Leaders in His Party

Fargo, N. D.—The crucial test of the Nonpartisan league came Thursday.

Whether the league will continue its policies of the last few years, or turn over in its bed, was to be decided at a state convention of the league Thursday.

Arthur C. Townley, president of the league, saw his political house go-tumbling last fall. Three of his henchmen, holding the highest offices in the state, were ousted by the voters.

Townley thought it over in a Minnesota jail for three months. Before he was released from the jail he gave the United Press exclusive authority to announce that he had hatched a new idea.

The idea was that the league should
no longer seek political offices for its members, but should endorse candidates of other parties or independent racers for office. Since that time under pressure of opinion he has mod-

Property Loss in Midnight Fire Will be in Excess of $50,000

GET HELP FROM APPLETON

Member of Firm Loses Life
When He Tries to Save Papers in Office

Hugo E. Martens was suffocated to death and heavy property damage was caused by a fire which partially ruined the store building of Julius J. Martens Co., South Kaukauna, Wednesday night, and for a time threatened the business district. The property loss was said to be in excess of $50,000.

Appleton fire department was summoned about 1 o'clock in the morning and the fire confined to the one building in which it started after an all night battle. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Hugo Martens, one of the owners of the burning store, reached the scene shortly after the fire started and succeeded in entering the building apparently intent on saving valuable papers in the office. He returned to the street, put on a gas mask and entered a second time. It is said that he was warned by the police not to make the attempt. This time he did not return and desperate efforts were made by fire fighters and police officers to reach him. The smoke was too dense, however, and the fire had gained too much headway when the rescue attempts had to be abandoned.

FOUND NEAR DOOR

It was not until the fire had been brought under control about 4 o'clock in the morning that the body was recovered. It was found by Patrolman James MacFadden lying about 10 feet from the door in the dry goods department. The gas mask had been torn from Mr. Martens' face. It is believed he had lost his way in the smoke-filled building and had decided to make a dash to safety without the mask protection.

The fire in the Third st. brick business block was discovered about 11:15
Wednesday evening by a passerby who summoned the Kaukauna fire department. Warning also was given Mrs. Julius J. Martens, who was at home in the Martens apartment above the store.

No information was obtained as to the exact cause of the fire. It started in the basement near the furnace and worked its way up until most of the first floor and the merchandise was ablaze. The flames reached the Masonic lodge rooms on the second floor causing considerable damage but the Martens living rooms were untouched by fire although damaged by smoke and water.

RASEY TELLS BOYS OF MANHOOD OF MASTER

Lee C. Rasey, principal of the high school, addressed an open meeting of the Hi Y club in the Y M C A at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday evening, on "The Manhood of the Master." Mr. Rasey showed how Christ was as much an outstanding character in the world as Abraham Lincoln, how he was the most manly among men. He mentioned incidents in Lincoln's life which compared with the tenderness of Christ and referred to the fact that while the name of Lincoln was not used in cursing the name of Jesus is frequently heard in a debasing way.

While playing with matches Tuesday, Robert, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Block, 1034 Superior st., set fire to his parents' home, one room of which was badly damaged. The child found his way to his mother's sewing room on the second floor where he found a box containing small pieces of cloth to which he applied a match.

It was some time before the child was missed by his mother. He was so quiet she was afraid he was in mischief. She called to him and he answered her in a frightened voice. When she went to the foot of the stairway she saw smoke above and

BISHOP WELLER APPEALS FOR AID FOR ARMENIANS

Letter Picturing Suffering in Near East is Received by Rev. P. O. Keicher

According to a letter received by the Rev. P. O. Keicher, rector of the All Saints Episcopal church, from Bishop R. H. Weller of Fond du Lac, the troubles of the Armenians have not ceased but are steadily increasing. The Turks are more brutal than ever in their treatment of the Christians and Bishop Weller makes a direct appeal for funds to aid these suffering people. The letter, which will be read in the All Saints Episcopal church Sunday, follows:

"I have a letter from Rt. Rev. Dr. Gailor, President of the National Council of our church, from which I quote as follows:

"At a meeting held a few days ago, I was horrified to hear the reports of the sufferings and continued persecutions of Christians. Indeed, the Turks are more brutal than ever, and war is going on today with dreadful ferocity. Thousands of orphaned children are starving and the condition of the women and the aged men is ghastly."

"Meanwhile, our people have heard so often of the Armenians they seem to think that their troubles are all past and the income of the Near East organization has fallen off so much that a number of its agencies for relief have had to be closed."

"I am writing this with apologies for troubling you, but deeply stirred by the horrible things I have heard and the base commercial supineness of the so-called Christian nations."

"I ask the reverend clergy to have this letter published in the local papers and to read it in Church, Sunday, March 26, and to appoint a committee in each congregation to collect funds in answer to this earnest appeal."

"These funds may be sent to 'The Living Church,' 1811 Fond du Lac-ave., Milwaukee, marked 'For the persecuted and starving Christians in Turkey, or through the Near East Relief.'"

Especially interesting was the talk given by Miss. Marguerite Mainssonnat on her impressions of Armenia at the monthly supper of the Business and Professional Woman's club Tuesday evening.

She stressed the fact that while the American people were hospitable and interesting, yet in many ways they differed from the French people. Among these differences was the fact that Americans paid so much attention to group life, there being so many things calling different members of the family to different places.

Miss. Mainssonnat said that the French girls have very few athletics, but they did a great deal of hiking with the purpose in view to observe all they could. She made a plea for fairness in judging other peoples.

Mrs. John Engel, Jr. read 'Madame Butterfly.' About 70 girls were present. The decorations were in St. Patrick's day colors.

REMODELS STORE ON WEST COLLEGE-AVE.

Theodore Sanders, who recently purchased the property at the corner of College ave. and Pierce-ave. immediately west of St. John church, is making extensive improvements to the building in which he will open a grocery store about the middle of next month.

The building has been raised several feet and new sills put under it, and a new front is to be added. New shelving is to be put in and new fixtures installed. The upper story is to be converted into a flat.

The property has a frontage of 48 feet and depth of 100 feet and is nearly opposite the Soo passenger depot. It was formerly owned by the Wisconsin & Northern Railway Co.

Pie a la Mode Most Popular Of All "Eats"

As the negro craves for watermelon so the Appleton man seems to be developing a taste for pie a la mode which must be satisfied regardless of the time of day or the place where he can get it.

Morning, noon and night, at all hours of the day, young and old people fill the restaurants and the great majority of them order 'pie a la mode' or 'mud,' as it has fondly been nicknamed. Especially is this a favorite dessert of the college people who drop into eating houses or other places between classes to gather a little strength for their coming quizzes.

Late at night these places are filled with college men who, having taken their 'dates' home, gather at a table and amid mouthfuls of pie a la mode, discuss with the other fellows the damsel they have just left.

The owners of the restaurants may be all out of bread or cake or anything else and not suffer. But just let them run out of pie a la mode and the wrath of the people will descend upon them.

DEPERE LOCK IS ALMOST REBUILT

The lock at DePere, which has been lowered five feet and partially rebuilt, will be completed by April 10, according to A. N. Dier, superintendent of Fox River Improvement, who is in charge of the work.

Both the upper and lower gates have been replaced and a new lining added to the upper eight feet of the lock. The changes were in progress during the greater part of the winter. The structure is known as a composite lock with stone on the inside and timbers on the outside. It was one of the oldest locks on the river and was constructed 37 years ago.

While no definite announcement has been made of the opening of navigation it is understood the date will be about April 18.

CLING TO RUNNERS AS CONVEYANCE FOR MAIL

Rural mail carriers of Appleton postoffice are using sleighs for a longer time this year than in many winters. Usually by this time the snow has melted away to such an extent that buggies had to be used, but the runners still are popular because of the deep drifts of this week's storm. The carriers had difficulty covering their routes for a few days because the roads were drifted in so badly, but the condition is somewhat better now. Uncle Sam's messengers are hoping they can emerge soon with automobiles and enjoy the rapidity which is impossible with horses.

Money Back If "Gets-It" Fails

Nothing is so utterly needless as the suffering from aching, painful corns. It is as easy to peel off a corn as to skin a banana. Touch it with "Gets-It" and the trick is done. For hard corns, soft corns, any corn or callus. All pain stops instantly and the corn proceeds to loosen and soon can be lifted right off.

Your money cheerfully refunded if it fails. But it never fails. Costs but a trifle. At Levee and Co., Minn. Chicago.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyleth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyleth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, and look years younger.

A meeting of the Star League council, composed of representatives of young people's societies of five Appleton churches, will be held at 3:30 Sunday afternoon in Emanuel Evangelical church. Arrangements probably will be made for a sunrise devotional service on Easter Sunday morning.

VOGUE OF SOFT COLLAR BLAMED ON WORLD SCRAP

Stiff Collar Manufacturers Trying Hard to Undermine Soft Collar Popularity

And the war is to blame for it all. Enough has always been said about the way in which women's apparel has changed since the war, but what about the men? Take up your old family album and look at the pictures, and you don't have to look for very ancient ones either, and what strikes you first? Why it's that stiff collar which makes him look so dressed up.

Then go down College-ave. and count all the men you see with stiff collars on. One hour, two hours pass before you see enough to count on your ten fingers and yet only three years ago a man would have been a social outcast if he appeared on the streets with a soft collar.

The men claim that this change of style has come through necessity. During the war, of course, all the soldiers wore soft collars on their army shirts and when they came back to civilization stiff collars were so irksome they became unbearable. One man, in offering an explanation, even went so far as to proclaim himself a member of the Russian aristocracy, which was so hounded by the

SEWING CLASS TO HAVE STYLE SHOW

Needwork done in classes in Appleton evening schools this winter will be exhibited in a unique way beginning at 7:30 Thursday evening in Columbus school. The event will be open to everybody in Appleton.

A style show has been arranged, in which the women and girls who made various garments will act as living models and wear the gowns and other apparel they made. There will be displays of many other articles of handwork in the various rooms. Mrs. Grant Powell, teacher of sewing, is in charge of the exhibits.

Bolsheviki that any man wearing a stiff white collar was simply taken and hung. Therefore they too had to resort to the wearing of soft collars which now have become an accepted fashion even in the most elite society. And so to the washable soft collar are sung the praises of life saving and of comfort but alas, even these virtues can not save it from an untimely death. There are strong indications that the stiff collar is making a comeback and fashion will demand it be worn before long.

GOVERNOR BLAINE'S PROPOSAL

Governor Blaine is in a high and righteous state of indignation over what he charges is a wholesale attempt at evasion of the state income tax law. His message to the legislature quotes at length the late Benjamin Harrison in defense of his proposal to make income tax returns open to the public, although if he is at all familiar with the record of this distinguished American, both as a lawyer and as president, he knows that there was no man more zealous of the confidential rights of business and individuals than he.

It is quite true, as Mr. Harrison is quoted as having said, that "No casuist can draw a sound moral distinction between the man who hides his property or makes a false return in order to escape the payment of his debt to the state, and the man who conceals his property from his private creditors. * * * If our taxes were farmed out to an individual or a corporation they would be collected. There would be vigilance and unrelenting pursuit. The civil and criminal processes of the law would be invoked with effect."

It will be seen from this that the Harrison view is not in accord with Mr. Blaine. Mr. Harrison never advocated what Mr. Blaine is advocating. What Mr. Harrison would do is clearly stated in what we have just quoted, namely: he would collect taxes by "vigilant and unrelenting pursuit." He would "invoke the civil and criminal processes of the law." If it is true, as Mr. Blaine charges, that there is colossal evasion and fraud in the making of income tax returns, they can be reached by invoking the civil and criminal processes of the law. If the penalties of evasion and fraud were made sufficiently severe, and the law was enforced vigilantly and relentlessly, the abuses he complains of would be speedily corrected.

Mr. Blaine in his message says that inspectors and auditors of the state, under the existing law, uncovered during the year 1921 the sum of $271,632 of concealed taxes. It is clear, therefore, that the state can discover fraud and concealment. Adequate penalties for these offenses rigorously applied would end them. But Mr. Blaine has a different method. He does not want to go to the expense and trouble of enforcing salutary laws in the correction of evils he is rightly enough attacking. Instead he has a scheme to automatically reform tax dodgers and insure honest returns without the state's raising a hand. His plan is to make public the confidential affairs of business and of the individual, alike to competitors, to agitators and to curiosity seekers.

The federal government does not find this necessary in the imposition and collection of income taxes. It recognizes the fact that private information about business is confidential, and that it would be unjust to open it up to the inquisition of anybody and everybody. The federal government is content to subject business and personal affairs to investigation by its authorized agents, and it has in its service agents who are competent to discover crookedness. It enforces the income tax law just as Mr. Harrison would have enforced it, by "invoking the civil and criminal processes of the law," and by "vigilant and unrelenting pursuit."

The state of Wisconsin can do the same if its lawmakers and public officials are so willed. This is the remedy the legislature should suggest for the governor's benefit. If the machinery does not exist it can be provided. Evasion and fraud in taxation are vicious and indefensible. No right-minded citizen has any sympathy for such prostitution of law and the obligations of citizenship. It can be both punished and stopped.

The power of the state of Wisconsin to protect itself against those who would defraud it is unlimited and only remains to be utilized. In a program of this kind the legislature would unquestionably give its hearty support to the governor, and would enact any laws necessary to effectively carry it out. By this procedure only the offenders would suffer, and honest people engaged in business, industry and other pursuits would not be penalized and subjected to injurious and unjust exposure of their private records to the public at large.

ENCOURAGING OUTLOOK

Supporters of D. O. Kinsman have no occasion to be disappointed over the showing made by their candidate in the primary election last Tuesday. Although the vote was light and probably was not an accurate test, it indicated that Dr. Kinsman is very much in the majority race. It indicated that he has hundreds of supporters and friends who are so assured of his ability to meet the responsibilities of mayor that they would not lose an opportunity of registering their preference, although they knew their vote would have no effect on his candidacy.

It is to be regretted that only a small proportion of Appleton voters discharged their civic duty in the primary election. The light vote without doubt was due to the fact that there was no contest among the mayoralty candidates and the impression that voting was unnecessary because it would not effect the candidacies. Every election, however, is an opportunity for expression of opinion and if the people are to rule they should express their opinions and sentiments on every possible occasion.

PRICE OF A SEAT IN THE SENATE

The public is predisposed to credit a rumor like the report emanating from Pittsburg, that the seat of Senator William E. Crow, was offered to John A. Bell, millionaire, for $650,000.

Is not the public warranted in being suspicious when money is mentioned in connection with a senatorial toga? Have not seats in the senate been actually bought, like merchandise?

True, a seat in the senate is not exactly like one on the stock exchange. There is a market price for membership in the trading pit. But various prices have been paid, publicly or secretly, for seats in the senate. As a consequence, citizens infer that it takes money to get into the senate, and, therefore, the senate represents and acts for the moneyed interests. The Pittsburg news of the offer of Senator Crow's seat to Mr. Bell is not confirmed. It may be only a rumor. Yet, there is no doubt that, were Senator Crow disposed to sell and Mr. Bell disposed to buy, the transaction could have been effected without leaving the faintest trace of criminality.

Whatever the facts may be, it is not inappropriate for Mr. Bell to declare that nobody could sell him a seat in the United States senate at any price. "I will make no settlement with anybody," are his words, "in return for a seat in the United States senate."

It is possible that an investigation may be made of the report. On general principles, Pennsylvania might engage in the inquiry with benefit, while as for the senate it would be of material value to that body as indicating whether the price of United States senatorships has gone up since Mr. Newberry was taken into membership. It would also be of interest throughout the country at large, as reflecting the market tendencies and indicating to prospective purchasers the probable price that will have to be paid where vacancies occur or where one is willing to go out and compete at auction.

The Air Jam

The air seems to be getting too crowded for wireless comfort. Therefore the conference on the control of the air that has assembled at the call of Mr. Hoover is timely.

Everybody is doing it. The jam that mother used to make is nothing to the jam that daughter will make in the atmosphere if she is allowed to vibrate at such wavelengths as she chooses and when she chooses.

"Cutting-in," which we now regard as an annoyance when we employ the ordinary telephone, will be a far more serious evil while all sort of messages have all the other there is to play about it and private individuals and companies use the same wavelengths in the same territory.

Airways are to be laid out for the planes; the same thing must be done for the phones. We who know the atmosphere as it is, hardly invaded by anything but sunbeams, water and wind, scarcely can envisage the atmosphere of coming generations crowded with flying boats and winged words as well. It is the thrilling start of interplanetary communication and the beginning of the bridging of the abyss of space that is bound to be consummated when the world is many trillions of years older. We forget what an infinite realm we are in. When we grow up we are going to do marvelous things, and we shall not debate the possibility of miracles, for we (that is, remote posterity) are to behold them.—PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER (Ind.).

HOW TO GIVE THE H. M. F. B.

I hope I said enough about the value and importance of the hot mustard foot bath, in the last talk, to create at any rate some curiosity on the part of mothers, wives, daughters and even grandmothers concerning the technique of the bath. It is certainly worth while for any woman to know how to apply this excellent first aid or emergency remedy when a member of the household is coming down with a cold, or, worse, with bronchitis, pneumonia, acute ear ache or any acute or perhaps painful illness associated with feverishness and congestion somewhere about the head.

Strip the patient and place him between blankets in bed. Never attempt to give or permit any one to take a hot mustard foot bath in the sitting posture. Flex the knees and place the foot tub, not a post shallow basin, half filled with water as hot as your hand will endure, with a tablespoonful of mustard flour stirred in it, under the blankets and put the patient's feet in the tub. Steady the tub with one hand while you pour out and feed the patient a glass of hot lemonade or any other agreeable hot beverage with your other hand. At the same time place on his forehead a cloth wrung out of cold water and use your third hand thrusting the bath to the cloth frequently so that it shall not grow warm.

The first five minutes are the hardest. You must dip out a dipper of water from the tub from time to time and add a dipper of hotter water. It is essential to success in the hot mustard foot bath to keep the temperature of the bath always a trifle above the sweating point, and the patient should sweat or frequently exclaim "a-m-i-n-i-w-e-l-z c-m-f-w-p sh-d-r-ure. Make him mad if you have to parboil his feet to do it. There should be nothing lukewarm about this business.

Administer two or three or four glasses of hot lemonade if the patient will take them. Keep the feet in the water, and keep lavishing the water over the legs, for 20 minutes or as long as half an hour, until the patient begins to sweat. Not just perspire, but sweat. Then remove the tub, dry the feet, put something warm and dry at the feet, cover the patient to the ears with blankets, and if he wishes, feed him all the cool water, pleasantly cold, that is, he may care to drink in the course of the next hour or two. Let there be no qualms about this change from hot to cold, grandma or grandpa.

After an hour or two, remove the blankets, sponge the patient's body with tepid water or with rubbing alcohol, dry, put on a dry nightgown, clean sheets, and kiss him good night airily on your fingers.

From first to last it is important to keep the patient well tucked in under blankets, in spite of his irritation and his desire to throw off the covers while he is warming up and sweating. After the sweating is well under way he will get over that irritation and probably fall into a sleep as he sweats. If he should throw off the covers, there is no danger, such as "taking cold," or anything like that, no harm done at all, except that the foot bath will probably do little good.

Such hot mustard foot baths, administered every two or three hours for several days, have been known to bring about apparent benefit in the treatment of such a serious illness as pneumonia.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Scarletina
Kindly inform me whether there is any difference between scarlet fever and scarletina.—(M. S. H.)

Answer—No. Scarletina is scarlet fever in disguise.

Contagion and Infection
Will you please explain the difference, if any, between contagion and infection, or between contagious and infectious disease.—(B. T. W.)

Answer—Contagion and contagious disease imply actual contact. Infection and infectious disease imply the transfer or communication of the disease, taint or poison by any means, whether by direct contact or by means of an intermediate agent. For example, contact or transfer by the anopheles mosquito is infectious, not contagious, while syphilis (transferred by personal contact with one having the disease) is contagious but probably not infectious or at any rate very slightly infectious by indirect means (that is, the disease is rarely if ever conveyed by inanimate objects).

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

PAYING THE RHINELAND ARMY

Generally accepting the legality of the American bill for $241,000,000 for the expenses of the United States forces in the Rhineland, American newspaper comment divided on the ethics of the manner of presentation. There seems a general unanimity on the part of the anti-administration press, and some of the larger independent journals to lay all of the resultant trouble to the separate peace treaty.

"The Allies said that the United States ought to be reimbursed," says the CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER, (Ind. Dem.) but of course it was none of their business. They were eating their treaty; let the United States attend to enforcing her own select and exclusive little treaty. In other words let her be her own collector. So the United States is out $241,000,000 while the French and British and Belgians are getting regular payment for their troops on the Rhine. It is only minor drawbacks of having a little treaty of our own."

"The MILWAUKEE JOURNAL (Ind.) insists that 'not even our rights were preserved by the treaty of Berlin. Today we occupy the ignominious position of saying we can live in splendid isolation so far as coming in on World peace is concerned—but we should like some cooperation where our possessions in the Pacific may be threatened, we should like some concession in Mesopotamia where we can demand nothing of what President Wilson's treaty assured to us, and in addition we should like some aid from the despised Europe when it comes to collecting the bill.'"

After pointing out that France has been an extreme beneficiary of the American people the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BELL (Ind. Rep.) says: "The Versailles Treaty she cannot share in any money collected under it is mere diplomatic potfoggery. * * * But cavalier treatment of this kind breeds more or less resentment, and the problem of adjustment in Europe, for which the assistance of the United States is importuned, is not helped thereby."

In somewhat sarcastic terms the KNOXVILLE SENTINEL (Ind. Dem.) points out that the treaty of Berlin never was submitted to the Allies. "The Versailles Treaty," it says, "is a mere diplomatic potfoggery. * * * But cavalier treatment of this kind breeds more or less resentment, and the problem of adjustment in Europe, for which the assistance of the United States is importuned, is not helped thereby."

"The BOSTON TRANSCRIPT (Ind. Rep.) says: 'The Government of the United States is in the embarrassing position of being on the outside looking in. As expected, the Versailles treaty will be the last awkward predicament in which the United States will find itself as a result of that separate treaty. It is probably Complication No. 1.'"

"The BALTIMORE SUN (Ind. Dem.) suggests that 'there may be an attempt to scapegoat American public sentiment to ultimate remission of this debt' behind the presentation. It then says: 'We cannot cut our pound of flesh from them (the pauperized European nations)—without weakening ourselves.'"

"The NEW YORK WORLD (Dem.) professes to believe that the entire trouble is a result of some awkward diplomacy and adds: 'Under a strict consideration of their rights the Allies might very well refuse to recognize the Treaty of Berlin as better than a second mortgage.'"

"The DARTON DAILY NEWS DEM. says our senate probably means nothing to the Allies. 'It is not at all amazing,' it says, 'that some of the French and English newspapers are criticizing America and poking fun at us for our demands. Had we done the honorable thing and stuck by our part of the treaty, the Allies would have shared equally with them. The "irreconcilable policy," born of political jealousy, is ruining it all.'"

"The NEW YORK (Ind. Dem.) believes the State Department will be satisfied with having the legality of the bill conceded. Our Department does not need to insist upon anything so vulgar as cash." It says, "It simply tucks one more J. O. U. into its pigeon holes with a sense of having thereby fully vindicated American rights."

"The BOSTON TRANSCRIPT (Ind. Rep.) says: 'The Government of the United States is clearly within its rights in demanding that the costs of the American occupation of the Rhine territory shall be liquidated out of the German reparations payments.'"

"The LYNCHBURG VIRGINIAN (Dem.) sees a just claim that our government should make. It says: 'It is to be hoped that the harp which has been done by the bungling manner in which America has proceeded is not irreparable.'"

In the opinion of the BALTIMORE NEWS (Ind.) it is fortunate that the demands of the United States don't get passed upon by an ordinary party court. It raises a question that would confound counsel and Judge alike. If this contract is contravened by the Treaty of Versailles, then the Treaty of Versailles must itself be null and void. It takes more than a majority to get it aside or supersede it with another."

"Mr. Hughes and the BROOKLYN EAGLE (Ind. Dem.) should not be intimidated for protecting American rights but the methods employed are not immune from criticism. We stepped in at a critical moment and upset all plans for dividing the billion gold marks received from Germany by demanding a quarter of it."

"The SPRINGFIELD UNION (Rep.) declares that 'our separate treaty with Germany gives us nothing without the confirmation of the Allies acting under the Versailles treaty. That confirmation has not yet been secured. It is possible that the present demand on the Reparations Commission is made less in the expectation of getting the money than as an initial step in securing from the Allies in some acceptable form a confirmation of our rights under a treaty we reject.'"

"The NEW BEDFORD STANDARD (Rep.) says: 'It sounds very much as though we had a claim against Germany and were using the Allies to collect it for us while doing nothing on our own account to compel Germany to pay.'"

"When our former Allies," says the ASHEVILLE TIMES (Ind.) "resort to tortuous technicalities in disproving our claim, they put unbroken friendship to a severe strain."

A sharp defense of the claim in every contingency is made by the BANGOR, ME., COMMERCE, which says: "The European nations should understand that this country is exactly within its rights in making the demand."

"This country will find a way to make its foreign debtors pay their just debts to us," says the BANGOR, ME., COMMERCE. "Of this they have had sufficient notice, for that is what this first demand means."

"The United States is entitled to consideration of its claim," insists the WILKESBARE RECORD, (Rep.) "The only point in doubt is whether the claim should be presented at this time."

MYSTERY OF THE VITAMINES; ARE THEY MINERAL SALTS?

London.—Food vitamins merely mineral salts?

The question is raised by Mr. Henry G. Brown, 23, Park-court, Clapham S. W. 4, in regard to the striking results, described in the "Daily News" on Thursday, of experiments by Dr. M. J. Rowlands, Nash Farm, Kent, in the feeding of pigs on a diet of vitamins.

Mr. Brown says that the extraordinarily high results which he has achieved in isolating these intangible vitamins, "I suggest to Dr. Rowlands," he adds, "that they are nothing more than mineral salts."

"I have in mind an experience on the West African coast which goes far to prove the identity of these mysterious vitamins with mineral salts. It is stated by the vitamins advocates that over a certain temperature they are destroyed. The particular aspect of this will be shown by the following experience:

"A large number of natives were ill with beriberi, the government medical authority when called on for advice pointed out that the natives were being fed on polished rice, and stated that if we changed the diet to brown rice beriberi would disappear, owing to the fact that the husk removed in the polishing contains the vitamins."

"A quantity of brown rice was ordered from Liverpool, but shortly after it was learned from an old native that a certain plant, if burned down to an ash, and fed with the ordinary polished rice, would completely cure beriberi. The plant was a creeper growing in brackish water."

GERMAN PRIZE FOR GLIDERS
London.—The Association of German Aeroplane Industrialists, acting in conjunction with the German Aero Club and the Scientific Society for Aerial Research, has offered a prize of 100,000 marks for the best flight with gliders. The competition is open only to Germans on German machines, according to the Berlin correspondent of the TIMES.

The conditions, which are much stricter than anything previously required that the machine must cross a definite line and cover in one straight flight a distance of not less than five kilometers (3 1/4 miles) against the wind, while the duration of the flight must be not less than 40 minutes. The prize will be awarded to the machine which best fulfills these conditions, the test being the length of time spent in the air without landing. The flight must take place between April 1 and October 31, and must be witnessed by two persons approved by the Aero Club. The plans of the machine are to be delivered to the Scientific Society and are subsequently to become the property of the Industrialists Association, subject to the safeguarding of the inventor's interests.

LOANS TO AUSTRIA
London.—The CHIRONCE states that the Austrian government, in cooperation with the Financial Committee of the League of Nations, has proposed a scheme of credits to Austria, the execution of which will depend on the terms of the Austrian assets, in respect of reparation and relief credits, have not yet been released by the governments concerned.

In order to enable Austria in the meanwhile to continue its programme of financial reconstruction with an assurance of reasonable stability for the exchange value of the krona, the government has agreed to make an advance of 2,000,000 pounds to Austria.

By agreement with the Austrian government, the expenditure from the loan is to be controlled in Vienna, by G. M. Young on behalf of the British treasury.

It is understood that the Italian government is considering the grant of a credit to Austria, and that the French government is asking the French parliament to vote the funds required for the advance of 50 million francs to Austria with a similar object, and that the Czechoslovak government proposes to make an advance of 500 million Czech crowns.

The Finance Committee of the League of Nations will be meeting very shortly to consider the situation created by the grant of these new credits.

Radio On Farms

BY W. A. WHEELER,
Chief Radio News Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture

Washington. — Adaptation of radio communication to the use and service of agriculture will, in my judgment do more to revolutionize life on America's farms than any other single factor that has ever been known. A radio can bring to the farmer those things the lack of which has done most to make farm life both difficult and distasteful—news, market information, amusements and instructive entertainment.

To my mind, there is no single use of radio except the protection of life at sea and in the air that should take precedence over its utilization for the benefit of agriculture.

There are more than 32,000,000 people on farms, comprising nearly one-third the total population of the United States. Most of these are located where they are practically cut off from immediate contact with the outside world. The radio is the only means of getting to them quickly either the economic information necessary in the proper conduct of their business, or the general news of the day.

SIX RADIO STATIONS
The Department of Agriculture broadcasts weather, crop and market reports from six radio stations of the Postoffice Department.

Daily market reports on the live stock, grain, cotton, hay, feed, fruits and vegetable markets are broadcast over virtually the entire United States. Farmers located almost anywhere can receive them either direct or through the assistance of amateur operators.

A number of state bureaus of agriculture and agricultural colleges are also broadcasting both local and national market and crop reports by radio telegraphy and radiophone.

With regard to the broad casting of music and entertainment, anything in the way of entertainment that will afford the farmer even slight diversion is possible by radio.

When thousands of tons of food products are threatened with destruction by impending storms or floods, ordinary methods of communicating warnings are too slow. Market news to be of greatest value should be received the same day.

All this is possible by radio. It enables the farmer to keep in instant touch with weather, crop and market news necessary for his business; gives for his information a summary of important happenings; it brings to his home, for all his family to hear, lectures, concerts, and other entertainments, heretofore only accessible to the city dweller.

Radio puts the farmer in direct touch with the whole world.

Train Lives In Green Bay; Has Job At Junction

Trains sometimes go to work in the morning just as people do. This explains why a Chicago and Northwestern engine with two passenger coaches attached goes speeding south through the city about 7:15 every morning without stopping, and with its whistle blowing one crossing blast one after another.

This partial train is made up at Green Bay, W. B. Easing general agent explains, and runs as far as Appleton Junction each morning with out taking on any passengers. Here it is turned around and started north, taking part of the coaches from the northbound train that arrives at the junction shortly after 8 o'clock.

Two trains formerly operated north about 10 minutes apart, one turning off to the Ashland division at the junction and the other continuing north through Appleton and Green Bay. One train makes the trip now as far as the junction and is divided, the sections taking up the runs for the former two trains.

The rally will start at 7:30. No admission will be charged and the public is invited.

HOL-LISTER'S ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA is one of the very best and surest spring medicines to take. Get it and see the difference in the whole family. Their color will be better, they'll eat better, sleep better, and be well and happy. Especially good for women and children.—Rufus C. Lowell, adv.

SCHOOL PROBLEM IS DISCUSSED BY TRADES COUNCIL

Union Labor Sends Representatives to Political Meeting in Green Bay

Members of the Appleton Trades and Labor council discussed the Appleton school problem at a meeting Wednesday night in Trades and Labor hall. The discussion was led by Fred Bachman, William Bailey and George Seeth and views on school problem were given by other members of the council.

Fred Bachman, Frank Johnson and George J. Schneider were appointed a committee to attend a meeting of representatives of union labor and farmers' organizations in Green Bay on April 9 when an organization will be perfected to promote the candidacy of Mr. Schneider for congress from the Ninth congressional district. A committee was appointed, of which William Eggeert was made chairman, to arrange for a conference of progressive political forces of Outagamie county during the first week in April. At the meeting a county organization will be formed to promote the candidacy of Mr. Schneider.

William Eggeert was elected financial secretary of the council Wednesday night.

DAIRY EXPERT AT FARMERS' MEETING

Paul O. Nyhus Will Test Soil Samples to Determine Fitness for Alfalfa

Presence of A. O. Collentine, dairy specialist of the college of agriculture, Madison, has been assured at the Greenville dairy and alfalfa meeting at Pegel hall next Monday, according to a letter received by Paul O. Nyhus, farm agent of the First National bank.

Mr. Collentine is the man who conducted a demonstration before a large number of farmers in Appleton last winter on the points of a dairy cow. He will be on the program for talks on better dairying and will offer some practical suggestions out of his wide experience.

With interest in alfalfa culture growing in the county, farmers are asked to take samples of their soil to the meeting for testing by Mr. Nyhus. It is necessary for farmers to know whether they have sour soil before planting alfalfa and this will be determined for all who submit a small amount of earth.

EXPECT BIG CROWD AT AKELEY LECTURE

An immense crowd is expected in Lawrence Memorial chapel Thursday night to hear and see Carl Akeley, noted big game hunter, who will give a lecture, illustrated with motion pictures, of his experiences in the African jungles. The lecture is one of the numbers of Appleton Community Artists and Lectures series.

Mr. Akeley probably is the best known hunter in the world. He has made numerous trips to the jungles and has secured wonderful specimens of African animals which now are mounted in great museums. He returned from Africa only a few weeks ago, bringing with him exceptionally good pictures.

Mr. Akeley is described as something of a humorist. He can see the funny side of some of his harrowing experiences and tell them in an entertaining way.

IRISH FLAG CHOICE MAY CAUSE FIGHT

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Dublin.—Selection of a flag for the ship of state of the new Ireland is likely to cause a near war.

British treaty signatories have declared that the new Free State may select its own flag and will not be bound to follow the Dominion's example of using the Union Jack with a distinctive superscription.

It is taken for granted that the new Irish government will select the orange, white and green tri-colors of the Irish Republic. But if they do, they will have a battle with the De Valera party, who maintain that the Republican flag is just what it implies—the flag of a republic.

The De Valerians want the Free State to leave them the flag and select something else—the old green flag with its golden harp, or, perhaps, they hint, the Union Jack. Neither is likely, certainly, whatever happens, the new flag will not be any sort of Union Jack.

The Free State party claim that majority rules in a democracy; that the majority of the Republican government are for the treaty and therefore are masters of the situation; that the people like the Republican flag, and that if they vote for the Free State, they will themselves have declared against the Republican party in its claim to represent the country.

If their argument holds good the Republican themselves will have to design a new banner.

SHALL HE REMAIN BLACKSMITH OR BE PRINCE IN POLAND

Mike Urbanski Hesitates as Fortune and Title Are Offered from Europe

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Pittsburg.—Torn between the choice of journeying to Poland, there to claim his heritage as Prince Michael von Urbanski, or disdaining all the glamor of royalty and remaining here as a satisfied blacksmith at McKeesport, plain Mike Urbanski, legitimate claimant of the Polish title of prince, residing at Fite station, Versailles township, considers the question as he works daily at his forge.

The McKeesport prince's right to the claim of royalty was established through the efforts of Congressman M. Clyde Kelly. He is the father of seven sons, two of whom have risked their lives for this country in the World War. One of the two, Walter, a veteran of the Eighty-second division, told of his father's claim to the title of prince.

About a century ago, according to the son, his great-grandfather, driven out of Poland for participating in a revolution against the Czar of Russia, all his property was confiscated. His grandfather also was compelled to flee the country, and he sought residence in West Prussia where Michael was born.

In 1890 Michael, with his wife and three children, came to America. Learning of his royal ancestors through papers which had been secreted, Michael instituted a search for proof. Through the American consulate in Warsaw the latter was found at Regierungsbizirk, Manenwerder, formerly part of Russia, but now included in Poland's territory.

Meanwhile Prince Michael, toiling in the mill, cannot make up his mind whether to visit the land of his ancestors and establish his claim or not. But his seven sons know their minds, and voted unanimously to remain in the United States. Besides Walter, the other sons are Alexander, Frank, Arthur, Leo, Clarence and Michael. There is also a pretty daughter, Clara.

Lynde, executive secretary of the Wisconsin state conference of social workers will speak on "Social problems in your own community." A general discussion will follow the talks.

COULD NOT TURN IN BED

Operation Avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dayton, Ohio.—"I had such pains that I had to be turned in bed every time I wished to move. They said an operation was necessary. My mother would keep saying: 'Why don't you take Pinkham's, Henrietta?' and I'd say: 'Oh, mamma, it won't help me, I've tried too much.' One day she said, 'Let me get you one bottle of each kind. You won't be out very much if it don't help you. I don't know if you will believe me or not, but I only took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine when I began to get relief and I am regular ever since without a pain or a headache.'

When I lie down I can get up without help and without pain. I can't begin to tell you how I feel and look. I have begun to gain in weight and look more like I ought to. I think every day of ways I have been helped. Any one who does not believe me can write to me and I will tell them what shape I was in. I am ready to do anything I can to help your medicine."

USES ADVERTISING TO FILL HIS PEWS

Nebraska Pastor Makes Record for His Church by Unique Publicity

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Kearney, Neb.—The Rev. Oliver Kene has been pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church here four years.

In that time he's changed his membership. CHANGED his church from an open one-day-in-seven institution to a seven-day-a-week one. ESTABLISHED a church cafeteria and community center. How did he do it?

"By advertising," he'll tell you enthusiastically. "That makes a big business organization go, so why shouldn't it work with a church?" Kene often inserts full page advertisements in newspapers here. He uses posters and signs at the church. "Publicity," he says, "changes the automobile from an enemy to a friend of the church. When the people of the whole region know of your church and its work, the car will carry them to the church instead of away from it."

"The expense of publicity may be met by increased collections—more people come and more is given. No church board need be afraid of the extra expense if the advertising is wisely placed and backed by the 'goods'."

"What is the use of preaching to 40 people and a 100 empty pews when by publicity you can have a house full, or nearly so?"

"Christ said to go out and compel them to come in. Compelling advertising is one modern way."

"Nothing can take the place of the gospel. Not movies, nor music, nor

WORLD'S OLDEST COP HATES MASHER

Sam Pretine, 98, Thinks He Has Biggest Snap of All in Butte, Mont.

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Butte, Mont.—Ninety-eight-year-old Sam Pretine swung his club and made a motion to give pursuit to a youngster who was cutting the corner on the park grass before he turned to answer the question.

"Being the oldest policeman in the world is a 'pipe,'" he said, twirling the mace.

"All you have to do is to shoo the kids off the pearly beds here in the park in the summer, and to see that none of them young fellows gets too fresh with the girls that parade the streets in these new short skirts."

Sam's been listed on the police roster here for so long that even officials themselves can't remember when he started.

BORN IN JERSEY Sam was born in 1824 in the ancient fishing village of Barnegat, N. J. With him, being a policeman is an avocation. He started as a plainclothesman in the government service at the time of the St. Louis whisky ring before the Civil War.

Sam, pounding the wall with his club to emphasize his remarks, says: "In 1861 I was Lincoln's personal bodyguard on the way from Illinois to Washington for the inauguration." Daring to have that statement half-baked addresses on current topics. Advertising must be backed by a full-orbed gospel message from the pulpit."

Kene's success has been so spectacular that investigating committees have been sent here by eastern churches to find out how he did it.

KINSMAN Has Ability to Solve Appleton's Problems

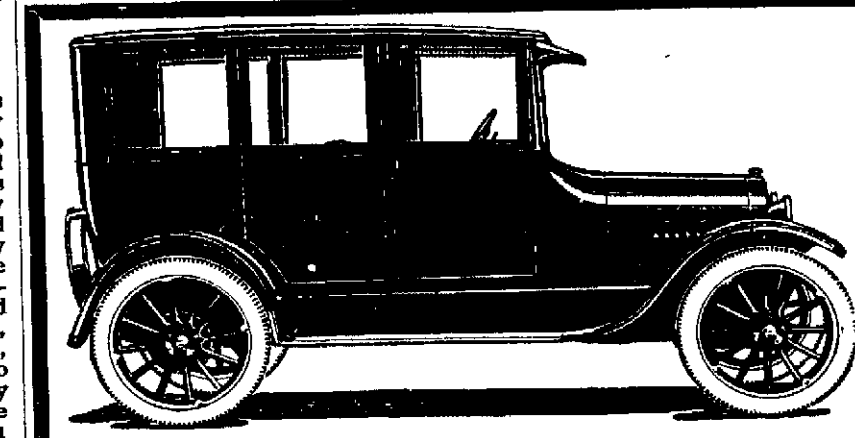

D. O. KINSMAN Elect D. O. Kinsman Mayor of Appleton

Appleton is facing solution of several extremely large problems in the near future. Among these problems are additions to educational facilities, construction of bridges, disposal of garbage and other matters closely related to tax burdens.

D. O. Kinsman has long been a student of civic affairs. He understands practical city government as few men do. He has the education, training and background to give these big city problems the expert study which their right solution requires. He believes the right solution consists in securing the largest possible benefit for the largest number of people with the least possible expense.

Appleton has the opportunity which seldom comes to a city to secure the services of a man so well qualified to solve its problems and SOLVE THEM RIGHT.

questioned and have it pointed out that if all such claims were true, Lincoln must have had 9000 bodyguards. Sam assumes an air of injured dignity.

"I was a champion sprinter in my time, too," he adds. "Lincoln once said to me: 'Well, Sam, you can run faster than I can, but I can split more rails than you.' But I don't suppose you believe that, either."

Sam says he went into the north-west first in 1858 to watch for poaching Canadian trappers. Now he has switched to watching for maschers.

"See those numbers on my badge?" He displayed it proudly. "Twenty-three. That don't mean anything special for me, for I'm going to live a long time yet. But it means 'git' for them young mascher fellows."

MERCHANTS ARE USING PAMPHLETS TO BOOST CANAL

Minnesota Man Prepares Interesting Booklet on Advantages of Waterway

A. H. Comstock, chairman of the Minnesota state commission for a deep waterway to the sea, has caused to be printed and circulated a 4-page pamphlet about the size of an ordinary envelope on the back page of which is a map of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence river showing the route of the proposed canal. The two inside pages contain so much valuable information concerning the proposed waterway and the advantages to be derived from it that several Appleton firms have secured copies and are distributing them in their business correspondence.

According to the pamphlet the shipping by an all water route without breaking bulk means a saving of 10 cents per bushel for the farmer on every bushel of grain exported. The immense hydro electric power to be developed will eventually pay the entire cost of construction and operation of the project.

BOOKS ON RELIGION LITTLE IN DEMAND

Autobiographies Also Classified as "Dead Wood" on Library Shelves

Is the world becoming irreligious? According to information gathered from the two big libraries in Appleton, religious books are among those which seldom are called for. Occasionally some student hurriedly gathering material for a sermon to be delivered in a small neighboring town dashes into the library and draws a dust covered religious book and delves among pages which apparently have never been opened. Autobiographies also are among this group of dead books, only when they are required reading do young people ask for them. What are the people demanding then? Fiction, fiction, and more fiction. A good story book seldom gets a chance to gather any dust, but is constantly in demand. The reason is that during the work of the day people are called upon to exercise their brains to such an extent that they are weary when evening comes and they want something light to refresh the mind. That may be one reason, another probable explanation is that those disappointed in love and life, and there are always heaps and heaps of such people around, want to be taken to the beautiful land of make believe, where brave heroes and beautiful maidens dwell, to live the things which might have happened in their own lives.

COST 22 MILLION TO DEEPEN RIVER FOR OCEAN BOATS

U. S. Engineers Complete Survey to Ascertain Expenses of Big Project

Twenty-two million dollars is a rough estimate of the expense that would be incurred in deepening the channel of Fox river from Green Bay to Neenah so as to make it possible for Great Lakes vessels to enter Lake Winnebago.

The survey was recently made by competent engineers to determine if such a project would be feasible in the event the St. Lawrence Great Lakes waterway project is carried out.

The figures are based on a 20 foot channel 200 feet wide which the heavier vessels carrying 11,000 tons of coal would require. The channel the entire distance would have to be blasted out of solid rock to a depth in some places of over ten feet.

The lock at DePue which has just been rebuilt would have to be lowered 13 feet to accommodate the larger vessels. In fact, all the locks retained would have to be replaced with larger ones. The survey eliminated two at Kaukauna and one in Appleton. The present depth of the channel is six feet.

The survey settled one thing definitely and that is the tonnage of freight would not begin to warrant the expenditure, according to the engineers.

County Superintendent and County Nurse Work Together in Schools

Miss Florence Jenkins, county superintendent of schools, and Miss Margaret Donnelly, assistant, are about to mail to the teachers of the county large heavy envelopes containing much valuable information for those in charge of schools and their pupils.

Included in the reading matter is a personal letter from the county superintendent calling attention to several important questions, and two rewritten pages of short rhymes for the smaller children which were prepared in the office of the county nurse.

"The Tale of a Tummy," taken from the Diary of a Stomach which first appeared in a medical journal, is included in the literature from the office of the county nurse.

Suggestive helps for increasing rate of silent reading and for increasing ability to comprehend what is read are contained in a circular letter prepared by the Oshkosh normal school. Advantages of the new state teachers association and detailed information as to how to organize an association are set forth in a 4-page pamphlet prepared by the secretary of the association.

Pamphlets giving an outline of work in United States history and civics, are included in the contents of the envelope.

MENASHA FIRM AWARDED HUGE SALES CONTRACT

One of the largest contracts of its kind ever placed in this locality has been closed with the Wisconsin Electrical Appliance company, Menasha, by the New Liberty Washing Machine company, St. Paul, Minn. The latter company has dropped its jobbing policy in this section of the state and has made the Menasha company distributor for 25 counties for Liberty washing machines, decentralizing its sales from Milwaukee. Menasha was chosen for the distributing point after a survey by C. B. Mosher and C. S. Miles, representatives of the St. Paul concern.

FACTS REGARDING APPLETON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

What President Harding Says About THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

"I do not know that I ever asked myself why I joined the Chamber of Commerce, but I assume that it was because I was in the newspaper business, committed to the policy of everlasting boosting of our home town, and we looked upon a Chamber of Commerce as the best organized agency for carrying on the boosting work. It all came very naturally to me because of the normal atmosphere of a newspaper office, which is ever concerned with the progress and development of the community which that newspaper seeks to serve.

"If I were to disassociate myself from the newspaper business I should assume I would be attracted to a Chamber of Commerce because business is the life blood of material existence, and no community is worth while unless it is very alert to business progress and greater commercial development.

"I know something of the inspiring work which is done by the live secretaries of the Chambers of Commerce throughout the country. They are ever pushing forward with such zeal that they take a great community of business men with them.

"I like to think that the thing which boosts the community is certain to make progress for the nation, and I should like our great republic to head the list of the great commercial nations of the earth."

TO REVIVE STAGE AMUSEMENTS OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

Five Old-time Black-face Minstrels Say Jazz is Done and Public Wants Change

Chicago. — "The age of jazz is done. What the public wants now is some of the old-fashioned entertainment of 50 years ago."

That's what five old-time black-face minstrels, all of them popular a decade ago here, say.

They have just announced their return to the state despite the fact their joint ages total 334 years and the crick of time has got into their backs.

Oldest of the "comeback granddads" is George Wilson, 75, the famous "Waltz Me Around Again Willie" comedian, and only living member of the Barlow, Wilson, Primrose and West company.

The other four are: Harry Armstrong, 72, survivor of the old Hay-ry Mastodon minstrels, Banks Winters, 65, author of "White Wings," Tom Queen, 61, and George McKissock, 61, whose names flashed on Broadway 40 years ago.

PLAN COMEBACK
Equipped with nothing but an old repertoire of songs and jokes, the plucky quintet will sail out to battle the jazz gladiators for fame and fortune.

"We are going to use our act as a gauge by which to test the rise or decline of public appreciation. Our act will be in vogue while it will last just 20 minutes," says Armstrong.

"In that time we will have given the audience the cream of what was popular during and right after the Civil War. I believe the public has grown tired of this jazz nothingness."

Songs the "old timers" will sing include:

"You're as Pretty as a Picture,"
"Dear Old Pal,"
"Thompson's Mule,"
"Strike Up the Band,"
"Call Me In the Morning,"
"Everybody Works But Father,"
"Lucy Am a Very Generous Lady,"
"Casser's Walized With a Straw-berry Blonde."

Some of the jokes:

"What makes more noise than a pig trying to get under a fence?"
Answer—"Two pigs!"

"What sort of hen lays longest?"
Answer—"A dead one."

"Can a man love two women at the same time?" Answer—"Not if both know it."

"The public laughed at them 30 years ago," say the "comeback" granddaddies. "So there's no reason why they won't laugh now. We're going to give the jazz hounds a run for their money."

TELLURIUM HUNT IS LATEST WAY OF FORTUNE SEEKING

Precious Metal Will Increase 'Power of Gasoline in Engines Enormously

Madison.—Untold wealth awaits the producer of tellurium.

A base, dirty, silver metal discarded in gold mining as refuse, has been raised to exalted value by the announcement that a tellurium compound mixed with gasoline would increase the efficiency of internal combustion engines to a point where every automobile, airplane and motor would have to be rebuilt to stand the strain of the new power.

Liberty maximum speed of 142 miles an hour could reach a speed of 300 miles an hour. Flavors capable of 42 miles an hour, with gear ratios changed, could make 30 with ease under the new power.

Dr. Victor Lenher, University of Wisconsin chemistry professor and a member of the National Research Council, was the center of the investigation that culminated in this new process, discovered and patented by Thomas Midgley and Thomas Boyd at the General Motors laboratories at Dayton, O.

There's a big horse in the element of this magic lamp discovery, however, Dr. Lenher told the United Press.

"It will take 1,500 tons of tellurium a year to dope the United States gasoline consumption," he said.

"From known deposits there is a production of only 60 tons a year. There simply isn't enough telluride to go around. That's what's going to make the fortune of some man or woman who discovers a comparatively large deposit of the heretofore useless metal."

Two years of after-war research by the tellurium-selenium committee of the National Research Council, headed by Dr. Lenher, covering intensive detailed work of dozens of scientists all over the country in an effort to utilize these metals were related by Dr. Lenher today.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is Multisided coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Multisided at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Multisided in a cup of glass with a little warm water is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your doctor gives you Multisided.

NO SYMPATHY IS WANTED BY VETS UP IN KETCHIKAN

American Legion Post Tells World Life Up North Isn't All Snow and Ice

Indianapolis. — Just imagine the members of the Ketchikan Post of the American Legion huddled together in an unheated room, suffering untold hardships and hobnobbing with sourdoughs and northdoughs.

Just imagine it! Because that's all it is—imagination! The American Post, up Alaska way, wants the world to realize this.

Somewhat the story has spread that there is much hardship in the Ketchikan Post. This resulted in letters of sympathy pouring in on the ex-soldiers.

So the historian of the Alaska post dispatched a letter to American Legion headquarters at Indianapolis and told down all the dope about "frozen cars," "hat dwelling" and such like.

"The only dog-team here," said the letter, "are hot-dog teams. We are not bundled up in furs and no cold wind and snow is chilling us to the marrow. When you think we are remodeling for bold, we are likely buying a baseball out of a stepping down to a movie. And maybe we're spinning about in an auto."

NO COLD WEATHER
The coldest thing about Ketchikan, according to the letter, are the cold facts about the humdrum life. There isn't a gold miner in the whereabouts and the thermometer has never dropped below the 5 below mark.

When Ketchikan is believed to be smothered under with terrific blizzards it is fanning itself with the disheartening realization that the deepest snow in recent years was three inches. Some winters pass with less than that amount of snow all season.

BROWN NOMINATED FOR VILLAGE MAYOR

W. B. Brown was nominated for president of the village of Hortonville at the caucus Wednesday evening. Other nominations were made as follows:

M. S. Schwartz and Raymond Ritzer, Peter Olk and Fred Miller, Henry Schaefer and Anton Miller for trustees; Jacob Miller and Lawrence Dabareiner for treasurer; Mike Ritzer and Charles Radichel for assessors; Rufus Poole for clerk; J. R. Sunborn and E. Kluge for police justice; E. Klein for constable.

A caucus also was held Wednesday afternoon at Hortonville with the following results: Rudolph Westphal, George Cuff and Jess Lathrop for supervisor; Henry Krueckeberg and William Marlen for assessor; William Dobberstein for clerk; Frank Gitter for clerk and justice of the peace; Raymond Birmingham for constable.

When Ketchikaners should be trekking along white trails with their breath visible on the frosty air, they are hanging in the raincoat in the hall and standing a dripping umbrella in the kitchen sink.

There is in all Ketchikan not a single genuine log cabin. Neither are there igloos. People live in concrete brick and wood clapboard dwellings.

Curiously enough the unromantic and temperate nature of Ketchikan is caused by a stream of water. The Japanese current, coming thousands of miles from the warm waters around Japan, swings in along the coast here and gives Revillagigedo Island a warmer climate than is enjoyed in any of the northern states of the Union.

THOUGHT PICTURE NEXT IN SCIENCE

Marvelous Feat is Expected to Be Performed by Cameras in Future

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New York.—"Concentrate steadily, please! Hold the thought until I say 'all right!'"

Will the photographer of the future say this to us instead of telling us to hold still until our face is registered?

Absurd as it may seem, it is within the bounds of possibility. For it appears that impressions of images thought of have actually been registered on the photographic plate!

In these experiments, however, no camera was used. A sensitive plate, tightly wrapped in opaque, black paper, was placed against the forehead of the subject experimented on and a definite image held in the mind for a minute or more.

Then the plate was taken into the dark room, unwrapped, and the image was found to have impressed itself upon the plate—through the black paper, like X-rays.

Successful experiments in this direction have, from apparently reliable accounts, been undertaken in France, Germany, Poland, Japan and in our own country.

EXPERIMENTS SUCCEEDED

In Japan Professor Fukurai of the University of Tokyo secured a number of remarkable photographs through the wife of a fellow professor. Commandant Dargot of the French army secured some for himself, and also through his wife. Professor Oghorowick of Warsaw obtained a large number through a young psychic. Miss Tomczyk Vincent Jones of the California Society for Psychical Research likewise obtained some, under excellent conditions of control.

It seems incredible that such a thing as a thought can be photographed—for we have always considered it a non-material thing, quite incapable of affecting matter—an attribute of spirit. Are thoughts indeed things?

If thought can be projected outward into space and affect a photographic plate, it must be by means of some subtle, invisible energy radiated from the body, corresponding to the light-rays in the lantern.

It is our duty to discover these rays and learn to control them, if possible.

Center field is Eddie Roush's regular position with the Cincinnati club. George Burns played the same position for the Giants. If Roush fails to sign up Burns will be used at center, otherwise he goes to left field.

How often, especially now that house cleaning time is coming, one receives unexpected "company" and is entirely out of sweets to offer them? ## BUYS AVENUE SITE: WILL ERECT STORE

Edwin Schwahn of Stevens Point Will Open Store at 684 College-ave.

A modern 2-story building soon will supplant the frame structure at 684 College-ave, occupied by the William Bleier barber shop through the sale of this property by Daniel P. Steinberg to Edwin Schwahn of Stevens Point.

Mr. Schwahn has notified the tenants to vacate and the building then will be razed. The new structure will be erected and ready for business within the next few months and will be occupied by Mr. Schwahn himself when he opens a store in this city.

This property was purchased by Mr. Steinberg from Mrs. L. Johnson about two weeks ago, together with the lot and frame building to the west occupied by the Bleier barber shop company and William J. Butler's fur store. The deal has just been closed with the Stevens Point man for the Bleier location.

CHARGE TAMPERING WITH CHEESE PRICES
Fond du Lac Man Says Producers Have Been Mulcted by Cheese Dealers
By United Press Leased Wire
Fond du Lac—Asserting that for the past decade the cheese producers of Wisconsin have been made the victims of manipulation on the part of dealers in the open market, and that for the past ten years during the peak of production beginning in April, prices have been so depressed as to cut almost in half the receipts of the actual producers, B. F. Sheridan, president of the Fond du Lac County Farm bureau, has called upon the committee of eleven of the American Farm bureau to take some action that will lead to stabilization of the market during four months period now at hand.

Mr. Sheridan suggests that conferences of Wisconsin cheese producers and dealers be called, or that other action be taken which will prevent a recurrence of the "bearish" manipulation, which in the past and through last year resulted in cheese prices being cut almost 50 per cent.

Does the least exertion tire you out? Do you feel "blue" and worried, suffer from dragging backache, headaches and dizziness? Too many women blame so-called "female trouble" for this unhappy state instead of weak kidneys, which so often are the cause. You must act quickly to prevent more serious trouble. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands of weak, tired women. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

There he lay on his back, his legs and arms spread-eagled abroad, his body displaying the flattened appearance a corpse assumes for the first few hours after death. Rafe's throat had been slit from ear to ear. His head was cut open and lay at a foot of blood. His face was scored with scratches. There was blood on his coat and vest and shirt, they found on examination. The district attorney ripped open the shirt and found four distinct stab wounds in the region of Rafe's heart. From one of these wounds protruded the broken end of a broad-bladed knife.

"Pull it out," urged Sam Larder, with a slight shudder, his fat face so white that it showed green in the moonlight.

"Been dead about two hours," proffered the man.

"About that," agreed Felix. "What you lookin' at, Arthur?"

"This," replied the district attorney, holding up the handle of the butcher knife.

With his fingers he traced two initials on the wood. The initials were T. W.

"You can't tell me," said the district attorney, belligerently, "that this butcher knife didn't come from the Walton ranch."

Sam Larder stated his belief at once. "She couldn't have done it, Arthur. Why Rafe's carved up like an issue sheet."

"She's a woman," interrupted the district attorney. "And a woman will do anything when her dander is up. And we know what this particular woman will do when she's mad. Didn't she try to split open Nate Samson's head when he was hardly more than joking with her? I tell you this, Hazel Walton is a murderer, and I'm willing to see her hung."

CHAPTER XV

Behind the corral of Guerilla Melody, at the tip end of Golden Bar, Main Street, a small spring bubbled to life amid rocks.

On the night of the first of April, Guerilla reached the spring at eleven o'clock.

"I thought you were never coming," announced a peevish voice. "I've been waiting here since nine o'clock."

"You talk much louder, Bill," said Guerilla calmly. "and you'll wait here a while longer—say about twenty years longer or fifteen, if the judge feels good-natured. Man alive, ain't you got any sense?"

"I was joking," Billy excused himself. "I've come to talk to somebody. And anyway, a fellow hardly ever gets more'n ten years for a hold-up where nobody's killed."

"But where somebody is killed the penalty is worth considerin'," pointed out Guerilla Melody. "And Tip O'Gorman was found yesterday morning lying on the floor of his front room dead as Julius Caesar, with your quirt beside him, and your snakeskin husband inside the door."

"Tip killed! Tip!"

"Yes, Tip, and on account of the quirt and the snakeskin there's a warrant issued for you for the murder, and two posess are out looking for you."

"I saw them," said Billy placidly. "And Tip ain't the only one cashed. Rafe Tuckleton passed out last night."

"How?"

"Throat cut, head cut, and three knife cuts through his heart. Hazel Walton is in jail charged with the job."

Billy Wingo stiffened where he sat. Hazel Walton in jail! For an instant he couldn't realize it.

"What evidence is there against Hazel?" Billy cut in sharply.

"In the first place there's the knife that killed Rafe," said Guerilla, seating himself beside his friend in the shadow of the rock. "Dutcher knife with T. W. on the handle that Hazel admits was hers when they showed it to her. But she said Dan Slike had taken the knife—stuck it in his boot when he left. Then there was Rafe's own gun which Hazel had lying on her kitchen table, showing he'd been there. She admitted that, too, but said he'd attacked her, and she'd managed to get hold of his gun after the clock fell on him, and drive him out."

"Is that all?" asked Billy.

"Lemme get my breath," Guerilla begged indignantly. "No, it ain't all. The district attorney says those supplies were bought for you and they were taken by you. Hazel's ridin' horse, the one used to be her uncle's that's gone too—with you."

"If Rafe thinks I was at Hazel's, it's reasonable to assume I might wish to have a hand in killin' Rafe my own self. That goes double for Dan Slike, seeing he had the knife last."

"It's reasonable all right enough, but then you and Dan Slike ain't no ways available, and Hazel is right handy."

"But how did Slike get hold of the butcher knife, that's what I want to know? He didn't have it on him when I arrested him last January."

"That's the damndest part of the whole deal, Bill. Hazel says Dan Slike came to her place before Rafe did, and it was him took the supplies and her horse and her hat and that very same butcher knife which gave Rafe his commensance. Slike beat her almost senseless too, she said."

Billy Wingo looked up at the stars. His lips moved. But no sound issued. After a moment he said, in an oddly dead tone of voice, "How did Slike escape?"

"Far as anybody can tell, he made him a key somehow and unlocked the door and walked out. Anyway, Billy Tyler found the door open yesterday afternoon and Dan's cell empty. And the district attorney lost a horse and saddle."

"If there was any kind of a trail it's queer they didn't run up on Slike at Hazel's."

"That's the funny part of it. The trail led in the opposite direction to find out the district attorney his own self, me that trail to the Wagon-jack, where they lost it on the rocky ground on the other side."

"Do you know somethin', Guerilla? It wouldn't surprise me a whole lot to find out the district attorney his own self, me that trail to the Wagon-jack, where they lost it on the rocky ground on the other side."

PICK HITS 60-POUND CHUNK OF OLD SILVER

Buenos Aires—A section hand working on the new railroad line between Salta and Huatunguina the other day cursed as his pick unexpectedly struck something solid and rebounded. But when he had dug around the obstacle it was discovered to be a chunk of pure silver weighing over sixty pounds. It is thought that probably the silver was lost, perhaps hundreds of years ago, from the back of a mule when being transported through the bleak Andes Mountains from far away Peru.

IRISH HONOR MEMORY OF NATIONAL LEADER

Dublin—Irish patriots commemorated the anniversary of the death of John Redmond, the great Nationalist leader who died in 1918. In every commemorative speech reference was made to the fact that Ireland has now gained everything for which Redmond and other Irish patriots fought so long, but as the man who secured the passage of the first Home Rule Act, the steppingstone to the present constitution of the Irish Free State chief credit was given to Redmond.

CRETONNE WILL COMPLETE ANY COLOR SCHEMES

Care Must be Exercised, However, in Making Proper Combinations

All cretonne is lovely, but do not buy it at random. There is a kind of cretonne for every room in your house and no other combination of colors will look quite as well in that room.

You must remember, in choosing your color scheme in cretonnes, that only certain colors harmonize or may be used together. Just now there is a fad for green interiors, and so we have a suggestion of coloring that has not been to the fore for several years. For we are planning green color schemes again. As things go now, we consider green and yellow admirable together. Green and certain shades of blue, too, are charming. But these combinations are cool and refreshing, but the green and blue would be cold in a room with a north exposure.

RASPBERRY AND MULBERRY
Then there is the color scheme of raspberry and mulberry together, with a background of gray. There are various color schemes employing brown or tan. These include combinations with blue and combinations of several tones of the same color.

And there are the rose and gray combinations that are in good style at the moment.

All these combinations are recognized in the new chintzes. The green color schemes are not usual enough yet to have produced many cretonnes. Yet, if we have a real return of the vogue for green, we shall probably have all sorts of cretonnes to fit in with it. There are already some charming spring-like designs showing yellow flowers or birds on a gray ground with traces of green foliage.

When you buy cretonne, after you have thought out your color schemes definitely, the next thing is the quality of the fabric. Don't buy a cretonne for window curtains, through which you can see the light when you hold the cretonne up before a window or a lamp. Such a cretonne loses all its life in the daytime. It is all right at night, when no light is shining in the windows, and such light as you have, strikes it from the inside, shines against it instead of through it. But when the daylight behind such a cretonne is bright, the cretonne loses all color and hence all character.

TESTING COLOR
Therefore put the cretonnes you buy through the acid test of holding them up before a bright light. If you cannot find any cretonne you like that will stand this test there is one way around the difficulty. You can buy the transparent, flimsier cretonne and line it. This lining makes it opaque and is really as good as the heavier, nontransparent sort.

Moreover, the lining adds to the color of the cretonne. It is best to make the lining a warm color in a cold room—one with a north exposure. Yellow or rose would prove very good with curtains showing yellow or rose in their designs. In a warm room, with a south or west sunny exposure, gray or blue lining might be used, and so might green. Again, be sure to make the color of the lining emphasize the color scheme of your room.

BUTTONHOLES
Sometimes buttonholing very sheer material seems quite hopeless on account of fraying. If you'll mark the buttonholes and then have them machine hemstitched you can buttonhole around the stitching without any difficulty.

STAGE PREPARES FOR SOCIAL WORK

Young Woman Sidetracks Social Working Career for Stage Experience

BY ROY GIBBONS
Chicago.—"Life is a stage and all the people in it actors."

These lines from an old verse kept recurring over and over in the mind of Miss Mary Haynes here.

She had chosen the role of a social worker as her life's career.

But somehow, she says, there was too much theory and not enough practice in what she had studied about humanity.

How could she know people better—their faults, needs and habits? Again the old verse repeated itself, as it had done a hundred or more times previously, as if in answer to the same question which she had asked herself repeatedly.

"It must have been a reply to my problem," she explains. "For I went on the stage and I have been learning most of everything about contact and types which hitherto was a mystery."

Miss Haynes regards the stage as her classroom. The hours spent behind the footlights she utilizes in a careful study and scrutiny of the audience she sees before her.

"And when the lesson has finished I shall go back," she says, "to the welfare work I love best. But then I shall be a more capable agent for good. The stage is indeed a study room. I am learning all that I set out for—people."

Cotton Ranch Converted Into Flower Farm

Memphis — V. E. Buchignani decided his land was too valuable to plant in cotton from which he realized from $200 to $300 an acre.

So he plowed up his cotton and planted peonies and dahlias in its place.

Now he is getting from $5000 to $7,000 an acre from his flower crop.

The big tract planted in peonies is his greatest revenue producer as there is as great a demand in the fall for his surplus peony roots as there is in the summer for the thousands.

This year his entire early crop of blooms will be shipped to New York and Chicago.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY
Today's word is EXPOSITORY. It's pronounced — eks-pos-i-to-ry, with accent on the second syllable. It means — explaining, clarifying, serving to interpret.

It comes from Latin "exponere," to expose.

Companion words—Exposition, exposition.

It's used like this—"Most people cannot understand the present bonus legislation with reading carefully several expository articles."

BATH MITTEN
A bath mitten is quite useful in giving a baby his bath and can be made out of a Turkish towel which has become too worn in places to be of further use as a towel. The mitten should be quite loose.

STRAWBERRY AND RHUBARB JAM
Use equal amounts of rhubarb and strawberries. Wash and hull berries and weigh. Peel and cut rhubarb in small pieces and weigh. Use pound for pound of sugar and fruit. Proceed as in preceding recipe.

This jam can be cooked in the sun or boiled over the fire. Rhubarb contains peonine and the sirup will jelly quickly if boiled. Put the jam in sterilized jars and seal while boiling hot.

STRAWBERRY AND PINEAPPLE MARMALADE
Wash and hull berries and weigh. Pare and cut pineapple in cubes. Weigh. Use equal amounts of strawberries and pine apples. Put pineapple in boiling water for five minutes. Drain and plunge at once into cold water. Drain and combine with strawberries. Use pound for pound of fruit and sugar. Put fruit and sugar in preserving bottle. Boil for 10 minutes. For layer 10 stand until the sugar is dissolved. Put over a slow fire and bring to the boiling point.

Boil 20 minutes and seal in sterilized jars while boiling. On being to the boiling point and spread on platters. Put in the sun until the sirup is thick and jelly-like. Put into sterilized jelly glasses and cover with paraffine.

Fruit preserved in the sun can be "cooked down" till very thick without leaving a strong taste.

PARTY FROCKS FOR CHILDREN ARE REAL "CREATIONS"

The open season for children's parties embraces 12 months a year, because these juvenile festivities are almost invariably attached to birthdays.

Not many special days, such as Easter, and May Day, offer sufficient excuse for parties, if no birthday is conveniently near.

As the American child grows more and more sophisticated the professional entertainer has become more in demand, to tell stories, lead in games, and keep things moving merrily.

The time-honored Punch and Judy show, the always fascinating sleight of hand performer, jugglers and clowns, may be counted on to please no matter how often they have been seen before.

Party frocks for children are today as truly "creations" as the lovely things their mothers wear. And like their mothers, they are bound by no one mode, but may be dressed with Puritan simplicity or oriental sumptuousness, to suit their types.

A sober little girl with straight heavy bobbed hair naturally looks best without ruffles, but a gay little blonde with curls seems to have a peculiar affinity for frills.

Borrowed from one of her mother's favorite modes of the day is the straight, long-waisted, sleeveless frock, devoid of ornament save a narrow belt or sash. But if juvenile arms are too thin, sleeves of any desired length are more becoming.

Any material from velvet and taffeta to organdie and handkerchief linen may be chosen for the small maid's party frock, and indeed, all of these materials and several others may be seen on equally smart children at the self-same party.

A Quarrel
"Now tell me what the trouble is about," said the Fairy Queen to the two battered looking kites.

"Nancy, Nick and Buskins had taken seats in the front row of the courtroom and they could hear and see everything that went on."

"They have been fighting again, your highness," said the policeman, coming forward and making a stiff bow. "It's the old trouble again. They've been jealous of each other these hundred years and they are getting worse instead of better."

The Fairy Queen turned her kind eyes reprovingly on the offenders.

"Tut, tut, tut," she said. "This will never do! Aren't you, both ashamed of yourselves! I keep this part of my kingdom, the Land Of-Up-In-The-Air just to make you happy and here you are acting like sillies."

"Dear only knows, when you kites get away from the strings'n' things that tie you to earth, you make a bee-line for the sky as quick as you know how. Why do you come if you cannot be happy?" she asked severely.

"I would be happy if it wasn't for this fellow," said the first kite. "He knows I am the most important but he won't say so."

"Why I've been written about in all the history books down on the earth and the children study about me."

"I'm the kite that carried the cord that pulled the rope that drew the cable that started the bridge."

"Oh, goodness!" cried the second kite, "we've heard it a million times!"

"Then he turned to the Fairy Queen. "As for me, your majesty, I am Benjamin Franklin's silk kite," he said. "I went up into the clouds during a storm and discovered electricity!"

And he held himself so straight that he nearly fell over backwards."

The Twins wondered how the Fairy Queen was going to decide the question. But Buskins said to wait.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
A Quarrel
"Now tell me what the trouble is about," said the Fairy Queen to the two battered looking kites.
"Nancy, Nick and Buskins had taken seats in the front row of the courtroom and they could hear and see everything that went on."
"They have been fighting again, your highness," said the policeman, coming forward and making a stiff bow. "It's the old trouble again. They've been jealous of each other these hundred years and they are getting worse instead of better."
The Fairy Queen turned her kind eyes reprovingly on the offenders.
"Tut, tut, tut," she said. "This will never do! Aren't you, both ashamed of yourselves! I keep this part of my kingdom, the Land Of-Up-In-The-Air just to make you happy and here you are acting like sillies."
"Dear only knows, when you kites get away from the strings'n' things that tie you to earth, you make a bee-line for the sky as quick as you know how. Why do you come if you cannot be happy?" she asked severely.
"I would be happy if it wasn't for this fellow," said the first kite. "He knows I am the most important but he won't say so."
"Why I've been written about in all the history books down on the earth and the children study about me."
"I'm the kite that carried the cord that pulled the rope that drew the cable that started the bridge."
"Oh, goodness!" cried the second kite, "we've heard it a million times!"
"Then he turned to the Fairy Queen. "As for me, your majesty, I am Benjamin Franklin's silk kite," he said. "I went up into the clouds during a storm and discovered electricity!"
And he held himself so straight that he nearly fell over backwards."
The Twins wondered how the Fairy Queen was going to decide the question. But Buskins said to wait.

AMERICANS HAPPY WITH OLYMPIC DATE

U. S. Track and Field Stars Will Be in Good Shape for Big Meet

By Henry L. Farrell

New York—Tentative dates set by the French committee for the 1924 Olympic games will be of distinct benefit to the American team. The track and field sports, in which the United States is chiefly interested, are scheduled to start on June 28 and continue until July 13. This rather early date will make it possible for the American committee to conduct trials while the college athletes are in competition and it will enable college stars who make the team to sail without breaking training.

Only a very late spring and unusual weather could prevent the club athletes from being in form. That early in the season although club games usually do not start until mid-summer.

In 1920 the whole Olympic program was scheduled almost a month later and it required months of almost incessant competition from the college stars to make the team. Whether in Paris in June and July is always more settled, which prompted the French authorities to choose the earlier opening day.

As it seems certain now that the French committee has met the financial requirements and will be able to stage the games in Paris, the tentative program may be accepted almost as an official working plan for the committees of all the nations that will compete.

Competition will comprise three groups, winter spring and summer games. The opening event is set for January 20 and the closing day July 28.

Bob Glks, veteran baseball star, now scouting with the New York Yankees, is always good for a yarn. Here is his latest.

"I was running the Shreveport club of the Texas League in 1907. We were battling for first place and about Aug. 1 I decided the addition of another pitcher would cinch the pennant for us.

"The club didn't have much money but we decided to beg or borrow $1200. For that amount I figured I could purchase a much touted pitcher who I believed would turn the tide in our favor.

"The pitcher I bought was more or less of a 'flivver' and never got out of the minor league ranks. His name means nothing to my story.

"When I purchased this pitcher from a small Texas league team the manager told me he had a likely out fielder of great promise, who was just the boy for my circuit. He offered me the fielder for $300.

"I wired back to Shreveport to see if they could dig up another $300. I did this after I had watched the kid for a couple of days and liked his actions.

"The town had been milked dry and I came home with the pitcher but not the much touted outfielder.

"We won the pennant that year and also some glory. However, had I grabbed the outfielder who was offered for $200 we would have made a lot of money.

"I will give you one guess. Well, it was 'The Speck'.

"All of which merely proves that scouting is a tough job. You often pick the 'flivvers' and pass up the peaches."

TURN DOWN $20,000 TO LEAVE AMATEUR RANKS

New York—Rather than lose "the pleasure of running and the spirit of amateur sportsmanship," Charley Paddock, the Pasadena flyer, turned down an offer of $20,000 a year to turn professional.

In presenting his views by mail on professionalism in athletics, the world's greatest sprinter said that professional promoters had approached him with an offer of $20,000 to run for a year in Europe. They promised to deposit one half when he signed the contract and the remainder when he had finished the schedule they had made out for him.

"Professionalism in the true sense of the word does not injure the athlete or lower the standard of individual achievements but it certainly ruins the spirit of amateur athletics," he said.

Call Him Second Paddock

E. W. Cair is the Charlie Paddock of Australia. This famous runner, who recently broke the 100 and 220-yard dash records that have stood in Australia for 20 years, is considered the greatest amateur runner that country has ever produced.

Carr, in a recent meet with South African champions, showed the way in all the sprint events. Carr's time for the 100 yards was 9 3/5 seconds. He covered the 220 in 21 1/5 seconds.

Aside from being a star performer on the track, he is a crack rugby player, using his speed to great advantage in that game. Australian experts believe he can beat anyone in the world at the world at the sprints. They are talking of trying to get Charlie Paddock to make a visit to that country.

OSHKOSH LEADER LINING UP TEAM

Sawdust City Moguls Expect to Have Fast Club in Baseball Flag Race

Oshkosh—Manager Steckbauer of Oshkosh Baseball club promises to have a team in the field this year that will make all other clubs in the Fox River Valley league get out and hump. While Oshkosh will lose a number of last season's stars, new men of ability will be secured to take their places.

Lester Stevenson who for the last two seasons has been the mainstay of the Oshkosh teams on the pitchers mound, has retired from baseball and Steckbauer will have to seek another hurler. Steve has pitched the local team to two pennants and his retirement will mean a real loss to the team.

Manager Steckbauer, however, has applications from four high class pitchers and one of them will be signed up within the next few days. Only a few of the old guard will be back. Just who will replace those who do not return has not been announced. Of last year's team, Poehlman, speedy infielder, Steen, the hardhitting outer gardner, Lambricht, the tall outfielder who last year played a wonderful game and who probably covered more ground than any other fielder in the league, and "Charlie" Boettge of Berlin, Oshkosh's star first sacker, will be the only ones who will again this year wear the Oshkosh uniform. Oshkosh has accepted the terms of a topnotch outfielder who last year was considered as the fastest man in the Lake shore league. He should prove a real asset to the team.

Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Druggists Guarantee First Pint Bottle of Allenruth to Show the Way to Complete Recovery

Mr. James H. Allen, of Congress Avenue, Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of fruitless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, are dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called ALLENRUTH, to others, who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of using he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers and instructed druggists to guarantee a full pint bottle as above stated.—Voigt's Drug Store, adv.

Allenruth is a powerful influence over rheumatism. It is a discovery that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

Winning a total of 55 games to 11 lost, the Arcade bowling team took first place in the City league championship race. The Olympics, with 48 games won and 18 lost, finished second. The F. O. E. 574 and Hoffman Construction Co. teams tied for third place, each winning 44 games and losing 22.

The schedule was finished Tuesday night. Rolling against the Olympic team Tuesday night the Arcades took three straight games and made a total of 2,902 pins.

Pensacola—The Brooklyn Robins ran away from the Louisville Colonels, winning by a score of 11 to 6.

St. Petersburg—The Washington Senators beat the Boston Braves 7 to 3.

Princeton, N. J.—Bob Morrison, Chicago, captain of the Princeton wrestling team, is out with concussion of the brain. It is the result of an injury received two years ago against Yale.

New Haven—Lizzy Winters, wrestling instructor at Yale says he would like to show Jack Dempsey that a wrestler is better than a boxer.

Ruth All Set For Big Year With War Club

New Orleans, La. — Babe Ruth, the mightiest slugger the game has ever produced, apparently is set for another great season.

He is in far better condition now than he was at a much later date last year.

Ruth is evidently bent on making another attack on the home run record despite the handicap of being ineligible to play during the first five or six weeks of the season.

Just to prove that he still had the range, the Babe made the longest hit ever recorded at New Orleans off the first ball he swung at in his first batting practice of the year.

In a game against the New Orleans club recently, he hit a homer with the bases filled. Local fans will talk about that hit for years to come.

LAWRENCE GRU MEN TO PRACTICE

Spring Drills to be Held When Ground Dry Enough for Firm Footing

Spring football practice will be held at Lawrence college this year. As soon as the ground is dry enough to give the grid warriors firm footing, Coaches H. D. McChesney and H. P. Buck will have the candidates for the 1922 team out for practice.

Much of the time this spring will be devoted to football fundamentals, such as kicking, passing, fumbling on the ball and tackling. The backfield men will be drilled in dodging and use of the straight arm while the linemen will be sent hard at the charging machine.

It is the plan of the Blue and White coaches to have sessions of signal drill and scrimmages. The spring practice will give them a good line on their material and they will be able to weed out unlikely candidates instead of having that duty to perform next September.

GREEN BAY WILL HAVE FAST NINE

Manager Bobby Lynch Lining Up Team for Fox River Valley Flag Race

Green Bay—Green Bay will have a strong team in the Fox River Valley baseball league championship race. Manager Bobby Lynch and President Gus Walter of the Green Bay Baseball association have laid their noses to the grindstone for the past two weeks and negotiations with a number of first class players are under way.

As yet, nothing will be given out until the contracts are signed, but according to Manager Lynch, when the makeup of the Green Bay team is made public, the fans are going to be in for a great little surprise.

Manager Lynch, right now, is hot on the trail of a battery which ought to have little trouble winning games in the valley league. Both the pitcher and the catcher saw service last season in the Hedding circuit.

Milt Wilson will be back on the job at first base. Manager Steckbauer of Oshkosh was anxious to sign up the big fellow and even offered to buy his release but the Bay management refused to part with him. There is a possibility that Harry Knapp will also be in a Green Bay uniform.

It is the intention of the club management to enlarge the seating capacity at Hagemester park this summer by lengthening out both the first and third base bleachers. Several other improvements are contemplated at the league park.

FAST BOWLING TEAM ISSUES CHALLENGE

Claiming the championship of the Fox River Valley, the Earton's Dyan challenge to any team of maple busters in the valley for a match or series of matches. They offer to root under any conditions named by a team accepting their challenge. The Dyan shine bowlers have shot 33 games this season and have lost two.

WHITE SOX ARE DOOMED TO LAST PLACE IN RACE

Chicago Team is Not Given Chance in American League Pennant Chase

By Ray E. Garrison

Unless something unforeseen occurs the Chicago American league club of the White Sox will simply make the eighth club in the Ban Johnson circuit this season. Charley A. Comiskey, the owner, will be richer by a few dollars and Kid Gleason, the outstanding figure of the managerial field, will be baldier and grayer when the 155-game schedule passes into baseball history. That's all.

Comiskey thought to send his pitchers and catchers to camp early this spring and did, the batteries alighting at Marlin for a ten days dip in the medicinal spring waters and a small slice of throwing and pepper batting. That part of the program was beneficial but the benefits derived from the abductions at the springs went for naught when the infielders and outfielders took their own sweet time in reporting to the Seguin training ground.

The first to report, Amos Strunk and Harry Hooper, were a week late. Dick Kerr, slab hero of the shady series with the Cincinnati Reds in 1919 isn't there yet. He wants more than his last year's salary with a $500 bonus which the club offered him.

Eddie Mulligan, Johnny Mostil, George Lees and Bib Falk were also disappointed and refused to report.

Gleason has some fairly good material to work on. He has three southpaws without Kerr—Russell, Davenport and Thompson, all big bavey boys with speed and a certain amount of control and change of pace.

Red Faber, leading pitcher of the American league last season, has recovered from an injury to his knee and believes he will be as good if not better than last year. Faber, Hodge, Acosta, Wilkinson and McWeeny will bear the brunt of battle on the mound.
